CAMERON - GRINT

Brilliant Wedding At St. Andrew's Church Followed By a Large Reception At the Bride's Home

St. Andrew's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening when John St. Andrew of Washington, D. C., was married to Miss Virginia Sampson Grint, eldest daughter of the rector of the church. The ceremony was solemnized at 8.30, the church being effectively decorated with honeysuckle, apple blossoms and other June flowers, and filled with admiring guests.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Hugh Mackinon, now organist at "The Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City, assisted on the violin by Miss Marjorie Cramton. As the music started the ushers, Albert Ricker of Boston, Dr. W. G. Ricker, Joseph Fairbanks and Warren L. Peck, advanced up the center aisle in pairs, each couple dividing at the head of the aisle and proceeding to the robing room and choir room. There the doors opened and they met the four bridesmaids, Miss Sarah P. Cameron, the groom's sister, Miss Maude Brown, Miss Clarissa Hall of Brookline and Miss Helen Boynton. As they advanced down the center aisle in pairs the groom and his best man, Donald Palmer Cameron, the brother of the groom, followed but remained at the head of the aisle while the rest of the party proceeded down the aisle to meet at the entrance of the church the bride party, consisting of the bride, her sister, Miss Mary Henderson Grint, who was maid of honor, and her brother, Stanley Poole Grint. The bride party then marched back up the aisle, the bride leaning on her brother's arm, and all took their places in front of the altar. Here the single ring service was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Dr. Alfred Poole Grint. The bride was given away by her brother and at the conclusion of the service the bride party left the church accompanied by the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin and silk tulle, trimmed with rare old lace that was once worn by her great-grandmother. She had a court train with the veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor wore blue silk with blue tulle over it, trimmed with silver lace, a silver lace Dutch cap trimmed with forget-me-nots, and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were all gowned in pink, trimmed with silver lace, wearing Dutch silver caps trimmed with pink rosebuds and carrying bunches of sweet peas. Mrs. Grint wore white lace thrown over lavender and lavender silk.

Mrs. Fred G. Lynch of Newark, N. J., was gowned in black net over silk. Many friends of the contracting parties were at the Spring street home for the reception which followed the ceremony, where the heartiest congratulations were extended to the bride and groom. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were the maid of honor and best man, the parents of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. Grint, and Mrs. Lynch. The rooms on the lower floor were profusely decorated with blossoms of the apple, lilac, wild cherry and honeysuckle, while carnations, roses and anemones added much to the effect of the floral display. The guests were received at the house by Master Glendon Good and two little girls, Misses Marjorie Powell and Dorothy Burns, received them upstairs. The ladies welcoming the guests to the rectory were Mrs. Fred G. Bundy, Mrs. C. A. Cramton, Mrs. W. B. Fitch and Mrs. Thomas Good. Mrs. W. J. Bigelow was the presiding genius of the dining room, assisted by Miss Katherine Winchester of New London, Conn., Miss Laura Stanley, Miss Clara Goss and Miss Eugenia Scott. Those who presided at tables were Mrs. Maurice P. Porter, Mrs. Herbert Himm, Mrs. Lindol M. Scott and Mrs. William A. Ide, while Miss Josephine Peck presided at the punch bowl. The guest book was in charge of Miss Mabel Shields and Mrs. S. A. Moore. Sargent's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

During the evening all had a chance to inspect the choice collection of wedding gifts which were both numerous and elegant. The bride's present to her bridesmaids was Roman gold bar pins with engraved initials, while the groom's present to the ushers was sapphire stick pins. The groom's gift to the bride was a platinum chain with a diamond pendant.

Among the guests from abroad, other than those mentioned, were Miss Henriette Sherman and Miss Louise Loosley of New London, Mrs. M. G. Hall of Brookline and Fraulein Dannhoff of Boston, who was one of the bride's teachers during her residence in Munich. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron left last night on their wedding trip and will make their future home in the vicinity of New York City, where the best wishes of a host of friends will follow them.
